2. DESCRIPTION OF POTHOLE PATCHING MACHINE

The manufacturer's publications describe the pothole patching machine as follows: The Global Python 5000 represents a unique solution for your road repair problems. The one-person operated, self-contained unit is a self-propelled pothole patching machine. One person can easily carry out the entire patching operation without ever leaving the comfort of the operator's cab. The Global Python 5000 is easy to operate. The operator doesn't need a commercial driver's license, and minimal training is needed to operate it. To access the hopper, the operator simply climbs a short ladder to a secure platform. The Global Python 5000 employs a hydrostatic transmission, and its powerful turbo diesel engine is highly accessible for ease of maintenance. The Global Python 5000 is able to travel from job to job at highway speeds. Curry County makes no representation of the description of the pothole patching machine. The Unit being offered is a 2014 Global Python 5000 Self-Propelled Pothole Patching Machine. It has 429 engine hours, 289 traveled hours, and 4180 miles. This machine being offered is used and is being sold "as-is" without any warranties and/or representations.

3. HOW THE POTHOLE PATCHING MACHINE WORKS

The Manufacturer's publications explain that the pothole patching machine works as follows: Consistent high-quality patches are accomplished as the operator fills the hopper with the asphalt mix of choice – either hot or cold. The hopper keeps the asphalt at the desired temperature by capturing heat from the engine exhaust. The operator drives the Global Python 5000 up to the pothole and, using in-cab controls, positions the multi-axis working arm over the top of the hole. All work is clearly visible to the operator. An air jet nozzle blasts water, dust, gravel and other debris from the pothole, providing a clean contract area for the patching material. Depending on the conditions, the operator may decide to spray the area with emulsive tack oil. The auger system carries the required amount of asphalt mix from the hopper and delivers, it to the pothole. The multi-axis working arm provides the finishing touches, creating a compacted, finished patch in an average of two minutes. The operator is then ready to move on to the next pothole, leaving behind a patch that is superior to those created by manual methods. Curry County makes no representation of how the pothole patching machine works. This machine is used and is being sold "as-is" without any warranties and/or representations.
